

FEDERAL OFFICERS HUNT RUM RUNNER

If Schooner Flies Foreign Flag, However, She Can Enter Any U. S. Port.

MUST CATCH DORYMEN

Washington Acts on Reports of Bootlegging Visits Off Long Island Coast.

With an announcement from Washington last night that Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has ordered an investigation of the reported operation of whiskey smugglers off the Long Island coast and a report from Atlantic City that revenue men boarded a schooner inside the three mile limit there yesterday it was indicated the Federal authorities are determined to shadow the mysterious vessel which has paid three bootlegging visits off Montauk Point.

Commissioner Haynes said that while he was looking into reports that liquor cargoes were being transferred beyond the three mile limit he did not know whether such matters would come within his jurisdiction. It was officially declared by the Treasury Department that if the vessel is flying any flag other than that of the United States it will not be molested by customs or prohibition authorities.

Commissioner Haynes will try to determine whether the ship is being supplied with liquor from the American coast, and if so an attempt will be made to intercept the supply and possibly arrest those engaged in stocking the vessel. If, however, the whiskey ship is obtaining its liquor from the Bahamas, as has been reported, American officials are powerless to intervene, and will have to restrict their operations to the arrest of persons who are taking cargoes from the vessel and conveying them within the three mile limit.

Capt. Reed, chief of the New York division of the Coast Guard, who was in Washington yesterday, said he had instructed Coast Guard stations on Long Island to investigate thoroughly the rumors of smuggling and to have cutters in constant readiness.

If the vessel is of American registry, according to Department of Justice officials, there would be a violation of the national prohibition act under an interpretation of the Attorney-General which covers American ships at sea. If a ship of foreign registry is actually being maintained for bootlegging purposes it would be possible for that vessel to enter New York or any other American port and remain twenty-four hours without being liable to seizure.

The report that a British schooner, the Pocomoke had been ordered into Atlantic City for investigation of smuggling charges was denied by Charles E. Kurtz, surveyor of the port of Philadelphia.

COURT DEFERS ACTION ON BRITISH WHISKEY

Shipment Will Be Held Pending Disposal of Case.

At the request of Earl B. Barnes, Assistant United States Attorney, Judge Learned Hand postponed yesterday for two weeks argument on the motion made by the Anchor line, a British corporation, for an injunction restraining Collector Aldridge from seizing a shipment of whiskey en route to the West Indies to be brought to this port next week for transshipment. As a result of adjournment the court directed Thomas D. McCarthy, United States Marshal, to take charge of the liquor when it arrives and hold it in his office until further order from the court.

In the bill of equity filed last Tuesday the steamship line challenged the recent order of the Attorney-General refusing transshipment under the national prohibition law of liquors arriving here and destined for other foreign ports. It is charged that the ruling is a violation of the trade treaty of 1875 between England and the United States.

FIFTH AVENUE CAFE RAIDED.

$6,000 in Liquors Seized and Man Arrested.

Wines and other liquors valued at about $6,000 were seized last night when Detective Agents Battle and Ross of the special service division of Police Headquarters, armed with a warrant, made a raid on the cafe at 217 Fifth avenue. Two patrol wagons were used to carry the cases to the East 15th street station.

The detectives arrested Andrew Frost Green, 66 years old, who was found in the place, and took him to the station, where he was charged with possession of the liquor.

BOSTON SON OF IRWIN TO SEE NEW YORK WIFE

Intends to Find Out Facts of Father's Double Life.

Arthur Herbert Irwin, the son of the Boston wife of Arthur A. Irwin, the baseball manager and veteran player who committed suicide on a steamship bound from New York to Boston, left Boston last night for New York to confer with the New York wife of the baseball man. Before leaving Boston Irwin declared that he was going to "fight for the possession of any money or property that ought to go to his mother" and that he intended to find out the facts regarding the double life of his father, which was revealed by the suicide.

Despatches from Boston said that Irwin was particularly bitter in speaking of the advantages which his father's money is reported to have given the son of his New York wife. The Boston wife also declared that the baseball man had not cared for her and for her children as he appears to have cared for his New York wife and family.

FIRST DUTCH TRADE AIRCRAFT FLIES HERE

Six Man Monoplane Was Invented by Fokker.

The Half Moon, a new six man monoplane invented by Anthony H. G. Fokker, the Dutch airplane manufacturer, made a successful flight yesterday afternoon at Curtiss Field, Mineola. This is the first Dutch commercial plane which has flown here.

The Half Moon's principal claim to fame is that with only a 220 horsepower motor it can carry at a top speed of 105 miles an hour six persons. This is the largest of any single wing, which is made of three ply birch wood. Bert Acosta, an American pilot, flew the plane, and although he is one of this country's most skillful "stunt" pilots, he kept the commercial plane right side up, as trick flying is now out of date for passenger and cargo carrying planes.

BILL IS SOUGHT IN TEXAS TO RESTRAIN KU KLUX KLAN

Representative Patman Plans to Put an End to Punishment of Persons Against Whom No Legal Complaint Has Been Made.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 21.—A resolution requesting that a bill to prescribe penalties for persons "disguising themselves and violating the laws of the State by inflicting punishment upon persons against whom no legal complaint had been filed" be submitted to the Texas Legislature, was presented to Gov. Neff today by Representative Patman. It bore the signatures of forty-nine State representatives. The bill, Mr. Patman said, was aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Patman said he also showed the Governor what was purported to be an application blank for membership in the "invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan." Beyond remarking that the requirements of the application "were more stringent" than he had thought, the Governor was non-committal, according to Representative Patman.

The application, Mr. Patman said, requires prospective members to remit $10

JUGO-SLAV CONSUL UNDER INDICTMENT

Two Members of Staff Also Named in Charges of Attempted Extortion.

Vladislav Savich, Consul-General of Jugo-Slavia, and two members of his staff were indicted yesterday charged with attempted extortion against Frank Zotti, editor of the Croatian newspaper Narodni List, which has advocated the establishment of a republican government for the South Slavs in the face, it is charged, of Savich's threats and repeated opposition.

Savich, who favors a monarchy, sent an intermediary to Zotti several months ago, according to the editor's charges, and told him that unless he ceased his republican propaganda the Consul-General would put him out of business by compelling transatlantic steamship lines to cease advertising in the newspaper. This intermediary, the indictments allege, was Aca Petrovich, 40 years old, a lawyer, who lives in Long Beach.

Petrovich was arrested yesterday afternoon and held in $20,000 bail. He will be arraigned in General Sessions this morning. According to Assistant District Attorney Morton, Petrovich is consensual of passengers who intended to sail on those lines. Two of the biggest steamship lines did withdraw their advertising, Zotti alleges, and the newspaper lost a revenue of $40,000.

After the complaint told his story to Assistant District Attorney Morton last month, the State Department was asked if a criminal charge could be placed against the Consul-General.

After an investigation the State Department sent word on June 18 that recognition of Savich had been withdrawn, according to Mr. Morton. Savich has continued to act as de facto representative of his Government, Mr. Morton added.

Stanislav Vukovich, who was indicted with Savich and Petrovich, is an attaché of consular affairs at 445 West Twenty-second street.

Zotti formerly conducted a banking establishment at 108 Greenwich street. After ten years' operation it went into the hands of a receiver in 1903. Zotti's records as publisher of the Narodni List were examined by Department of Justice agents in August, 1918, when his office was raided. Zotti denied then that he was opposing the nationalist movements of the Slav subjects in Austria.

O'LEARY GAINS POINT IN SEIZED BAIL FIGHT

U. S. Must Show Cause Why It Should Not Be Returned.

Judge Learned Hand issued yesterday an order directing Earl B. Barnes, Assistant United States Attorney, to show cause why the Government should not set aside the forfeiture of Jeremiah A. O'Leary's bail bond. The bond was ordered forfeited when the former editor of Bull disappeared. The case will be heard next Thursday.

In his papers O'Leary characterizes the proceedings, which were reopened last week at the direction of William Hayward, United States Attorney, as a prosecution of a political nature growing out of his legitimate activities against the former Administration. He set forth that his default was not willful, and that as he was acquitted on seven out of eight counts in the indictment, no harm has come to the Government from the delay of the trial caused by his temporary absence from the city at the time the default was taken. William H. Daly of 141 Broadway represented O'Leary.

Despatches from Boston said that Irwin was particularly bitter in speaking of the advantages which his father's money is reported to have given the son of his New York wife. The Boston wife also declared that the baseball man had not cared for her and for her children as he appears to have cared for his New York wife and family.

LEAYCRAFT TWINS FOUND PENNILESS

Will Arrive Here Early To-day From Worcester, Where They Were Stranded.

Charles and Latrobe Leaycraft, the twenty-six-year-old twins who have been missing since Monday from their home at 13 Charles street, will arrive in New York early to-day from Worcester, Mass. According to their stories, they were stranded in the city yesterday, they started off in search of employment, but became frightened at newspaper stories warning about Rhode Island and Massachusetts on foot. Finally they got into Worcester and decided to telegraph to a relative for money.

Reginald Rossett Leaycraft, a brother, who reported them as missing, said last night that the young men had telegraphed their sister, who lives in another city, and that she had sent them money. The brother, it was learned, wired $15 to Worcester to pay their carfare here.

The twins were nearly famished when found. They had but $12 between them when they left New York, they said, and one of them had spent the last quarter for a shave at the Union Station, Worcester. The other went unshaven.

When the twins left New York, they said, they took a boat to Providence, intending to seek employment there. Stories in the Boston papers caused them fear detention by the police, and on Tuesday they set out for Marlboro on foot. They slept in a doorway in Marlboro Tuesday night, and on Wednesday walked to Worcester, about twenty-five miles.

Wednesday night they slept on a bench in the Worcester Union Station and yesterday telegraphed for so long a time attracted the attention of a policeman, who took them to Police Headquarters for investigation. After their identity was discovered the New York police were asked for instructions. The orders went to put them on a train in charge of the conductor and send them home.

The twins appear sorrowed by their experience, but not indignant at their treatment. They told the Worcester police that they had been put in the Bloomingdale hospital in White Plains last winter by relatives.

FOILS ROBBERS; ARRESTED.

Storekeeper Who Possessed Pistol Freed in Court.

Frank Ciricco of 231 East 100th street fired four shots to attract the police early yesterday morning when he discovered two burglars attempting to break into his store. Policemen who responded arrested Ciricco for having a revolver without a permit. The thieves escaped.

Magistrate Sweetser freed the storekeeper in the Harlem court when he protested he believed he had a right to shoot off a revolver in such an emergency, and the weapon was one given to him by a friend who served in the war.

ACCUSED OF BANK THEFT.

William Jacob Held on Charge of Surety Company.

William Jacob, 23, employed in the collection department of the Nassau National Bank, in Brooklyn, was arraigned yesterday in Adams street police court on a technical charge of having $750 from the bank. He pleaded not guilty and was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Inspectors of a surety company were Jacob's accusers. They declared that it took them a month to find him. He was arrested at the home of his mother in the Manchester apartment, Broadway and 108th street, Manhattan.

The surety company men said that the young man's total shortage will amount to $2,370.94.

JOBLESS BANK CLERK ENDS LIFE IN HOTEL

W. F. Easton Wrote Wife Before Shooting Himself.

W. F. Easton, 35, an unemployed bank clerk, whose home was in 2666 Elmore place, Brooklyn, was found dead yesterday afternoon in a room in the Hotel McAlpin. He had shot himself through the head with a revolver. His wife, Mrs. Marian Easton, received a letter from him just before the hotel notified her of his death.

Mr. Easton registered in the hotel Wednesday night, signing himself as F. Easton, of Easton, Pa. It is thought he shot himself shortly after going to his room. The lights were still on when the body was found, and he was dressed. A new revolver lay beside the body.

AGED MAN AND DEAF IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Samuel Case Is Run Down at Hampton While Picking Berries on Track.

HAMPTON, N. J., July 21.—Samuel Case, 82, and deaf, was killed by a train of the Central Railroad of New Jersey near here to-day while picking berries along the track. He had been warned to keep off the railroad right of way, but insisted upon picking berries almost every day.

Case was well known in this section and was regarded as very eccentric. He is said to have been worth about $500,000. As proof of the old man's eccentricity his son, Walter Case, of Glen Gardner, N. J., said that his father had a horror of amusements and not only cut his own hair, but deplored the fact that he could not make his own boots. He compelled his wife to make her own clothes in spite of his wealth and protested against any sort of improvements.

Neighbors of Case said to-night that he frequently berated Thomas A. Edison as being responsible for the loss of billions of dollars in "useless electric lights," and that the old man had frequently dashed the telephone to be a swindle because he had watched the wires and had never seen a message go over them. He did not believe that such things as submarines existed and held that even one who believed anything in the newspapers was crazy.

S. W. BONSAH MUST PAY JUDGMENT OF $806,718

Stepdaughter Wins Suit for an Accounting

Seymour W. Bonsall, head of the innovation Wardrobe Trunk Company and other corporations, was ordered by Justice Young in the Supreme Court at White Plains yesterday to pay to his stepdaughter, Mrs. Vira Cornell Kenyon of Rye, N. Y., the sum of $806,718, which she alleged was due her from the estate of her father, when the judgment was one of the largest ever entered in Westchester county.

Mrs. Kenyon's father died when she was one year old and after Bonsall had married her mother he invested the inheritance, under power of attorney, in various enterprises of which he is the head. In 1917 Mrs. Kenyon, then Miss Cornell, demanded an accounting of her estate, and William R. Fago was appointed by the court to prepare it. He accounting was accepted and affirmed by the Appellate Division and the Court of Appeals.

GIRL HELD AS FAKE CHARITY SOLICITOR

American Legion Investigator Charges 'Timely Service Society' Is a Fraud.

For the second time this month Miss Daisy Russell, 18, of 163 West Forty-second street, formerly a cigar maker, was arrested last night and charged with soliciting funds. She was arrested by Patrolman McGinnis at Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, on the complaint of Richard Bell of 1219 Madison avenue, who said that the American Legion had investigated the organization for which the young woman was collecting money and had found them to be fakers.

"As a member of the American Legion," Bell told the police, "and being sure of my facts, I want to do what I can to put a stop to this fleecing of the public for the support of a fake organization."

Miss Russell and another girl were arrested on July 2 on the charge of soliciting funds without a permit. They were arraigned the next day before Magistrate Sweetser in Tamm Court, and when he was informed that the girls had been locked up all night he ordered their release and described their detention as "outrageous."

When Miss Russell was arrested last night she was carrying a can on one side of which were the words: "For the Unemployed." On the other side appeared the words: "Timely Service Society, 132 Nassau street." She will be arraigned in Yorkville Court this morning. She was released last night in $500 bail, which was furnished by Vincent P. Kough of 969 Sherman avenue, The Bronx, who gave his household furniture as security.

A man who said he was Harry P. Messervy, "manager of the commercial department of the Timely Service Society," also was at the East Sixty-seventh street station when Miss Russell was bailed out. Bell had gone home when he arrived, but from the description of the complainant Messervy said he was sure he was the same man who went into the office at 132 Nassau street a short time ago and had asked a number of "impertinent questions." He wanted to know what the society was, just what the organization was doing, how its books were kept and what became of its funds. Messervy said he had to "show the man out."

Messervy said that the Timely Service Society has a thirty-five acre farm at East Millstone, N. J., where it sends unemployed persons regardless of whether they served during the war. He said the society was organized to help anybody who is out of work.

"And so far as I know," he said, "we don't have to get permission from the police or anybody else to solicit funds so long as we are not collecting money for the war." Messervy said the organization had a force of between thirty and fifty girls soliciting funds on the streets all the time. The girls are allowed to keep 25 per cent. of all they collect, he said.
